

IDEXX Reference Laboratories

Internal Medicine Consultants

Andrea Balch, DVM, MS, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Balch graduated from veterinary school at Oregon State University in 2000. She completed a private specialty practice internship the following year in Mesa, Arizona. Following her internship, she performed an internal medicine residency at Mississippi State University. She has been employed in private practice in Virginia, Texas and Nevada. Additionally, she held a faculty position at St. Georges University in Grenada. Dr. Balch has been board-certified in small-animal internal medicine since 2006. She joined IDEXX as a consultant in 2016.

Amanda Blackburn, DVM, DACVIM

Internal Medicine Specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Blackburn received her veterinary degree from the University of California, Davis, in 2006. She then completed an internship at a private specialty hospital in New Jersey, followed by an internal medicine residency at the University of Pennsylvania. Following her residency, Dr. Blackburn was employed as a staff internist at two private specialty practices in California. She has been board-certified in small-animal internal medicine since 2011. She joined IDEXX as an internal medicine consultant in 2016.

Raquel Brown*, DVM, DACVIM

Oncology and internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine, oncology

Dr. Brown received her veterinary degree from Texas A&M University in 1995. She then practiced in Houston as a general practitioner and emergency veterinarian. She returned to Texas A&M in 1998 for advanced training, which included a small-animal internship, a residency in small-animal internal medicine, and a residency in oncology. She is board-certified in both oncology and small-animal internal medicine. Dr. Brown has worked in private referral practices in Texas and served as an adjunct professor at Texas A&M University. She joined IDEXX as a consultant in 2009.

Elizabeth Carsten, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Carsten graduated from Colorado State University College of Veterinary Medicine and Biomedical Sciences in 1994. She completed a small-animal internship the following year at the University of Minnesota, followed by an internal medicine residency and nutrition fellowship at Texas A&M University. She has been board-certified in small-animal internal medicine since 1999. After completing her residency, Dr. Carsten was a staff internist at two busy private referral hospitals in Arizona. She has been an internal medicine consultant with IDEXX since 2002 and is currently manager of North America Medical Consulting Services.

Kelly Chaffin*, DVM, MSpVM, DACVIM

Oncology and Internal Medicine Specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine, oncology

Dr. Chaffin received her veterinary degree from Texas A&M University in 1994. She then completed an internship and small-animal internal medicine residency at the University of Georgia. Following completion of the internal medicine residency, Dr. Chaffin next completed an oncology residency at North Carolina State University. She is board-certified in both oncology and small-animal internal medicine. Dr. Chaffin worked in private referral practices in Texas and California for 12 years prior to joining IDEXX as a consultant in 2012.

Celeste Clements, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Clements graduated from the University of Florida College of Veterinary Medicine in 1989 and then completed a 1-year internship at the Animal Medical Center in New York City. After 2 years of general practice, she entered into a clinical residency in small-animal internal medicine at Texas A&M University, which concluded with her board certification in 1995. She practiced for 5 years in referral centers in Maryland and Texas and was employed by a veterinary pharmacy. She joined IDEXX as a consultant in 2007.

Internal Medicine Consultants, continued

Charlotte Davies, MA, VetMB, CertVA, MS, MRCVS, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Davies received her veterinary degree from the University of Cambridge in 1990 and spent 2 years working in the university's anesthesia department. She completed a rotating internship in small-animal medicine and surgery at the University of Georgia and a residency in internal medicine at the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine, where she then served as a clinical instructor. Dr. Davies was in private practice at a small-animal referral practice in Richmond, Virginia, for 11 years before joining IDEXX as a consultant in 2009.

Alicia Dudley, DVM, MS, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Dudley graduated from the Purdue College of Veterinary Medicine in 2010. She completed an internship the following year at Mississippi State University, followed by an internal medicine residency at The Ohio State University. After completing her residency, she was employed for 2 years as a staff internist at a specialty hospital in Fishers, Indiana. Dr. Dudley is board-certified in small-animal internal medicine. She joined IDEXX as a consultant in 2016.

Robert M. DuFort, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: small-animal medicine, large-animal medicine, laboratory medicine

Dr. DuFort received his DVM from the University of California, Davis, in 1980. He completed an internship in small-animal medicine and surgery at a private specialty practice in Sacramento, California, followed by a small-animal internal medicine residency at Cornell University and a residency in clinical pathology, microbiology, and pathology at the University of California, Davis. He joined Consolidated Veterinary Diagnostics as chief clinical pathologist and was the clinical laboratory director for 10 years before joining IDEXX in 1995.

Corinne D. Fabrick, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Fabrick graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Madison School of Veterinary Medicine in 2005. She then completed a small-animal internship and small-animal internal medicine residency at Texas A&M University from 2005–2009. She has been board-certified in small-animal internal medicine since 2009. Following her residency, Dr. Fabrick moved to Boulder, Colorado, to work at a new specialty practice. She joined IDEXX as a consultant in 2012.

Kristi L. Graham, DVM, MS, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine, dermatology

Dr. Graham received her DVM from Purdue University. She followed it with an internship at Washington State University and finished her training at Atlantic Veterinary College (AVC) of the University of Prince Edward Island, completing an MS and an internal medicine residency. Board-certified in small-animal internal medicine in 2005, Dr. Graham then returned to Indiana and practiced internal medicine for 8 years. She taught in Purdue's Veterinary Technology Program and has periodically provided clinical support in the teaching hospital at AVC as a visiting instructor. She has served as chair of the continuing education committee for the Indiana Veterinary Medical Association for several years. Dr. Graham joined IDEXX as a consultant in 2011.

Sophie A. Grundy, BVSc (Hons), MANZCVSc, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Grundy received her veterinary degree from the University of Queensland, Australia, in 1997. After working in private practice, she moved to the United States and completed an internship at Texas A&M University, followed by residencies in small-animal internal medicine and theriogenology at the University of California, Davis. Following her training, Dr. Grundy pursued postgraduate studies with the Department of Population Health and Reproduction at the University of California, Davis. Dr. Grundy has worked in private specialty practice intermittently since 2006 and joined IDEXX as an internal medicine consultant in 2012.

Internal Medicine Consultants, continued

Beth Herman*, DVM, DACVIM, DACVECC

Emergency-critical care and internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine, emergency and critical care

Dr. Herman received her veterinary degree from the University of California, Davis, in 1999. She completed an internship at a private specialty hospital in California, followed by a combined residency in internal medicine and in emergency and critical care at a private specialty hospital in Maryland. She has been board-certified in both small-animal internal medicine and in emergency and critical care since 2005. Dr. Herman spent several years in private specialty practice in the Pacific Northwest prior to joining IDEXX as an internal medicine consultant in 2016.

Kristen Hibbetts*, DVM, DACVIM, DACVECC

Emergency-critical care and internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine, emergency and critical care

Dr. Hibbetts is a 1994 graduate of Texas A&M University College of Veterinary Medicine. Her small-animal internship at the Animal Medical Center in New York City was followed by a residency in small-animal internal medicine at Purdue University. After certification, she became a clinical instructor at the University of Pennsylvania while also completing a residency in emergency and critical care. Dr. Hibbetts joined IDEXX as an internal medicine consultant in 2000 and is currently senior manager of the North America Medical Consulting Services.

Natalee Holt, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Holt received her veterinary degree from Kansas State University in 2007. She completed an internship at Colorado State University, followed by a small-animal internal medicine residency at Tufts University. She has been boarded in small-animal internal medicine since 2011. Dr. Holt worked in private practice in New Hampshire for almost 2 years prior to joining IDEXX in 2013.

James Hummel, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Hummel received his veterinary degree from North Carolina State University in 2005. He then completed a small-animal rotating internship at a private referral hospital in Gaithersburg, Maryland, followed by a small-animal internal medicine residency at North Carolina State University. He remained in North Carolina, working in specialty hospitals as a small-animal internist for 4 years prior to joining IDEXX as a consultant in 2013.

Peter Kintzer, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Kintzer received his DVM from Cornell University. He completed an internship at the Animal Medical Center in New York City, followed by an internal medicine residency at Tufts Veterinary School. He is board-certified in veterinary internal medicine. Dr. Kintzer was on staff at Tufts for 5 years, followed by many years as an internist in specialty hospitals in New England. He has been a key opinion leader for IDEXX since 1995 and has worked for IDEXX since 2010.

Susan Klein, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Klein earned her DVM from Cornell State College of Veterinary Medicine in New York in 1998. She completed her internship at Animal Medical Center in New York in 1999 and later her residency at Angell Memorial Animal Hospital in Boston in 2004. She became a diplomate of the American College of Internal Medicine in 2008. Over the course of her career, she has worked as an internist, a small-animal general practitioner, a shelter veterinarian, and a mobile ultrasonographer. Dr. Klein joined IDEXX in January 2015.

Patricia Kull, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Kull received her DVM from Cornell University College of Veterinary Medicine in 1997 and completed a 1-year internship in small-animal medicine and surgery at the University of Minnesota, followed by a 2-year residency at the University of Pennsylvania. Following her residency, she stayed at the University of Pennsylvania as an instructor, becoming board-certified in small-animal internal medicine in 2001. She worked in private practice in New York City for 1 year and in Maryland for 3½ years. She joined IDEXX in 2006 as an internal medicine consultant.

Internal Medicine Consultants, continued

Jill Lurye, DVM, MS, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Lurye earned her DVM from the University of Minnesota in 1998 and completed her internship at the University of Illinois in 1999 and her residency at Auburn University in 2002. She earned her MS from Auburn University in 2002. She served as a visiting assistant clinical professor at Auburn (2002–2004) and as an assistant professor at Kansas State University (2004–2007). She worked at a private referral practice 2007–2015 and then joined IDEXX in January 2015.

Paige Langdon, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Langdon graduated from the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine in 1997. She completed an internship the following year at Washington State University, followed by an internal medicine residency at the University of Missouri–Columbia. After completing her residency, she remained at the university as a clinical instructor for 1 year. She was subsequently employed as a staff internist at a specialty hospital outside Richmond, Virginia, for 8 years. Dr. Langdon is board-certified in small-animal internal medicine. She joined IDEXX as a consultant in 2010.

Linda Matros, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Matros received her DVM from Texas A&M University. She worked at a general private practice and then at an emergency hospital. She completed her residency in internal medicine at Iowa State University and then established a referral practice in Carson City, Nevada, in 1993. Dr. Matros is board-certified in internal medicine by the American College of Veterinary Internal Medicine. She has been a consultant with IDEXX Laboratories since 1996.

Andrea Wang Munk, MA, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Munk received her veterinary degree from the University of California School of Veterinary Medicine in 2009. She completed a small-animal internship at Colorado State University in 2010 and an internal medicine residency at the University of Georgia in 2013. She is board-certified in small-animal internal medicine. Dr. Munk gained several years of clinical experience as a staff internist in Utah and California prior to joining IDEXX as a consultant in 2015.

Shannon Parsons, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine, oncology

Dr. Parsons obtained her veterinary degree in 1997 from University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine. She completed an internship at New York City's Animal Medical Center and a residency in small-animal internal medicine at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Parsons has been board-certified by the American College of Veterinary Internal Medicine since 2002. She operated a veterinary internal medicine mobile service for several years in southwestern Montana and joined IDEXX as a consultant in 2005 and is currently manager of North America Medical Consulting Services.

Lisa Paull, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Paull received her veterinary degree from the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine in 1996 and completed a small-animal internship at the University of Minnesota in 1997. Afterward, she spent 3 years in Indiana completing a small-animal internal medicine residency at Purdue University and became board-certified in 2004. Dr. Paull practiced at a busy 24-hour referral practice in New Jersey before joining IDEXX as a consultant in 2003. After 9 years of consulting, Dr. Paull revisited clinical medicine and practiced for a period of time in Virginia before returning to IDEXX as a consultant in 2013.

Internal Medicine Consultants, continued

Barrak M. Pressler, DVM, PhD, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Pressler received his veterinary degree in 1999 from the University of California, Davis, and then completed an internship and residency at North Carolina State University. Dr. Pressler has been board-certified in small-animal internal medicine since 2003 and earned a PhD in immunology in 2008. He was an assistant professor of small-animal internal medicine at Purdue University and Ohio State University prior to joining IDEXX as an internal medicine consultant in 2013.

Liberty Rasor, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Rasor earned a DVM at Colorado State University, graduating in 2000. She completed a small-animal internship at a specialty hospital in San Diego and a 3-year residency in small-animal internal medicine at the University of California, Davis. Dr. Rasor is board-certified in small-animal internal medicine. She worked in a specialty hospital in Arizona before joining IDEXX as an internal medicine consultant in 2007.

Roberta L. Relford*, DVM, MS, PhD, DACVIM, DAVCP

Division vice president and chief medical officer

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine, clinical pathology

Dr. Relford graduated from Auburn University in 1982 and was a small-animal practitioner for 4 years. She obtained an MS in pathology at Mississippi State University and a PhD in pathology from Texas A&M University, where she also pursued a residency in small-animal internal medicine. Dr. Relford is board-certified in internal medicine by the American College of Veterinary Internal Medicine and in clinical pathology by the American College of Veterinary Pathologists.

Jane Robertson, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Robertson received her DVM from the Ontario Veterinary College at the University of Guelph in Canada in 1992. She worked in mixed-animal and small-animal practice before completing a small-animal internship at the same institution in 1994. She completed her medicine residency at University of California, Davis, and became board-certified by the American College of Veterinary Internal Medicine in 1998. She practiced in a busy referral hospital before joining IDEXX as an internal medicine consultant in 2000 and is currently director of Medical Affairs.

Chris Rollings, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Rollings received his DVM from Tufts University in 2000 and completed his small-animal medicine and surgery rotating internship at Colorado State University the following year. He then spent 2 years in a small-animal internal medicine residency at the University of Pennsylvania, finishing in 2003, and pursued training in nephrology/hemodialysis at the University of California, Davis, for an additional year. Dr. Rollings then accepted a 1-year lectureship at the University of Pennsylvania before becoming a staff internist at Angell Animal Medical Center of Boston, where he had been practicing for 6 years until joining IDEXX as a consultant in 2011.

Nancy A. Sanders*, DVM, DACVIM, DACVECC

Emergency-critical care and internal medicine specialist

Areas of Interest: internal medicine, emergency and critical care

Dr. Sanders received her veterinary degree from The Ohio State University in 1991. She then completed an internship and internal medicine residency at the University of Pennsylvania. Following her residency, Dr. Sanders remained on staff at the University of Pennsylvania for several years before venturing out into private practice in New Jersey and then Maryland. While in practice in New Jersey, she completed a residency in emergency and critical care medicine. Dr. Sanders is board-certified in both small-animal internal medicine and emergency and critical care medicine. She has worked in academia, in industry, for the NIH, and most predominantly in private practice over the 15 years prior to joining IDEXX as an internal medicine consultant in 2012.

William Saxon*, DVM, DACVIM, DACVECC

Emergency-critical care and internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine, emergency and critical care

Dr. Saxon received his DVM from Iowa State University in 1986. He completed his internship at the Animal Medical Center (AMC) in New York City and residencies at the AMC and the University of Pennsylvania. He practiced in the San Francisco area until 2007 and owned an intensive-care unit in a specialty referral practice in Washington, DC. He has been an IDEXX Reference Laboratories internal medicine consultant since 1997.

Internal Medicine Consultants, continued

Elizabeth Schooley, DVM, MS, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Schooley received her veterinary degree from Colorado State University in 2003. She completed an internship at the Animal Medical Center in New York City and continued on to a residency in small-animal internal medicine at the University of Missouri. While there, she obtained a master's degree in biomedical science. Dr. Schooley has been board-certified by the American College of Veterinary Internal Medicine since 2007. She worked in a private practice in Virginia for 3 years prior to joining IDEXX in 2010 and is currently manager of North America Medical Consulting Services.

M. Alexis Seguin, DVM, MS, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Seguin attended Cornell University as an undergraduate and then obtained her master's degree and DVM at the University of Wisconsin–Madison in 1996 and 1998, respectively. She completed a rotating small-animal medicine and surgery internship at North Carolina State University, followed by a 3-year residency in small-animal internal medicine at the University of Florida. She became board-certified in 2002. She spent 2 years in private specialty practice, first in Mesa, Arizona, and then in Wisconsin. She has been with IDEXX Laboratories since 2004.

Jennifer Steele, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Steele graduated from the Western College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Saskatchewan in Canada in 1997, followed by an internship at the University of Minnesota. After a short time working in general practice, Dr. Steele completed her residency training in small-animal internal medicine at the University of Wisconsin–Madison. She then worked at the University of Minnesota Veterinary Medical Center as an assistant clinical professor and in private practice in northwestern Illinois before joining IDEXX as an internal medicine consultant in 2005.

Cindy Stubbs, DVM, MS, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Stubbs received her veterinary degree from North Carolina State University in 1995. She completed an internship at Texas A&M University followed by a small-animal internal medicine residency at Colorado State University. Dr. Stubbs has been board-certified in small-animal internal medicine since 1999. While at CSU, she also received a master of science degree in clinical sciences. Dr. Stubbs then worked in private practice in Atlanta, Georgia, for almost 2 years prior to owning her own internal medicine practice for 7 years. She joined IDEXX as a consultant in 2013.

Tara K. Trotman, VMD, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Trotman received her veterinary degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 2000. She then completed an internship and internal medicine residency at the University of Pennsylvania, and has been board-certified in small-animal internal medicine since 2005. Following her residency, Dr. Trotman remained a staff internist at the University of Pennsylvania for several years. She worked in a private specialty hospital outside of Philadelphia before joining IDEXX as an internal medicine consultant in 2012.

Ron Vin, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: equine internal medicine

Dr. Vin graduated from the Koret School of Veterinary Medicine at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem in 1996. Following his training in internal medicine, he was board-certified as a diplomate of the American College of Veterinary Internal Medicine. Since his residency, Dr. Vin has been a provider of referral diagnostic services to equine practitioners throughout New England and continues to be the director at a private equine hospital. Dr. Vin has been consulting for IDEXX since 2010.

Internal Medicine Consultants, continued

Benita von Dehn, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. von Dehn received her DVM from Colorado State University in 1989. She completed a small-animal internship at the Animal Medical Center in New York City, followed by a small-animal medicine residency at the University of California, Davis. She then spent several months at the University of Utrecht Veterinary Hospital in the Netherlands. In 1996, she became a diplomate of the American College of Veterinary Internal Medicine. She has been a part-time medical consultant since 1995, and has been on the consulting staff at IDEXX since 1997.

Amanda Wagner, DVM, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Wagner received her veterinary degree from North Carolina State University in 2002. She completed an internship at Tufts University and an internal medicine residency at the University of Wisconsin. She is board-certified in small-animal internal medicine. Dr. Wagner spent several years in private practice at a multispecialty hospital in Wisconsin prior to joining IDEXX as a consultant in 2015.

Linda Werner*, DVM, PhD, DACVIM, DACVP

Clinical pathologist, clinical pathology and internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine, clinical pathology

After receiving her veterinary degree from The Ohio State University in 1974, Dr. Werner completed an internship at the Animal Medical Center in New York City and an internal medicine residency at the University of California, Davis (UCD). She was director of the clinical immunology laboratory at the University of Florida until 1985, when she returned to UCD to pursue a PhD in comparative pathology, joining the UCD veterinary pathology department in 1990 and IDEXX in 1996. Dr. Werner is board-certified in clinical pathology by the American College of Veterinary Pathologists and by the American College of Veterinary Internal Medicine.

Susan Yohn*, DVM, MS, DAVBP, DACVIM

Internal medicine specialist

Area(s) of interest: internal medicine

Dr. Yohn received her veterinary degree from Iowa State University in 1982. She practiced for several years in New Jersey and Illinois before completing a small animal internal medicine residency at Purdue University. She has been board-certified in small-animal internal medicine since 1994. Dr. Yohn worked in private referral hospitals for 16 years before joining IDEXX as an internal medicine consultant in 2011.

*The specialist is double-boarded.